To increase the supply to the desired number of gallons Mr. White wanted an appropriation of $1,547,000. He said it was imperative, and that the work should begin at once. He also asked for $10,000 to defray the expenses of surveys to be made with a view of bringing water from New Jersey and New York States to Brooklyn.

Mr. White said in less than two years the city of Brooklyn would be consuming all the supply of water on Long Island.

The lawyers have not yet definitely settled the question as to what they will do in such an emergency, but it seems to be the general opinion that some member of the counsel will attend the police trials to watch the cases as they go on, if they do go on, and look out to some extent for the interests of the witnesses, who are likely to have a hard time or it if they should be compelled to attend.

It is not expected, however, that the Committee's counsel will be present in any official capacity, or make any demand for recognition.
